

Think-Pair-Share

Think-pair-share is a strategy used to help build comprehension.

Students work together in small groups or as partners when answering a question or solving a problem.

Students first think on their own about what was asked, then they find a partner or small group and each person shares what he or she thought.

Think-pair-share allows students to think on their own and communicate with peers.

